Curling—Alberta Lumber Competition at the Granite Rink, 8 o'clock. Capital City rink opens for the season.

TAYLOR SCHOOL WON

By a score of 3 to 2 the Alex. Taylor school trimmed McKay avenue in a swift game of hockey last night on Thistle Rink. The losers won another game.

THE A.A.H.A. MEETING IS POSTPONED

The meeting of the A. A. H. A. committees which was to have been held in Red Deer last evening for the purpose of drawing up the schedules and amending the constitution of the Association, has been postponed until a week from next Tuesday. Vice-President Dobson will represent the Edmonton-Strathcona district.

FRANK COSNELL BROKE RECORD

His Score of 262 is Highest in History of Olympic Bowling League.

Frank Cosnell, who has been scoring with great credit for the last month, last night rolled 262 for the Athletics, compiling the highest score on record for a league game at the Olympic alley.

"Gee" started with a strike and got 9 pins on the second frame. From then until the end of the game, strike was the chief item on the menu, and gathering to it, he totalled 262, which mark will give the league bowler something to shoot at.

The Athletics took three straight from the Olympics and are now occupying the attic position in the league race. Cosnell with 262, 176, and 175, a total of 613 was high man for the evening. Dan Knott, 542, Eddie Morris, 534, and Hal Morgan, 517, were also much in evidence.

The scores:

OPENING OF THE SENIOR LEAGUE

Thistles Took Two in Three From Granites—Blackett Was High Man.

If last nights play is any criterion the newly-organized Senior Bowling League is a splendid innovation. Playing only three men a side, it allows the game to be played quickly and the players have not such a long wait for their turns.

Bert Miller's Thistles upheld the honor of dear old Scotia last night when they took two in three from Frank Cosnell's Granites.

The scores were:

Thistles	492	477	434	Total
Serace	471	190	182	843

A RIVAL TO KERR.

The white race has been vindicated. The terrible stain on their sporting reputations, placed there on July 25th, by one Jack Johnson, at Reno, Nevada, has been eradicated. George Perks, midnight runner par excellence, fully upheld all the golden opinions given him when he defeated Rastus Brown in the 100 yards race by 2 1/2 eye as.

Perks, the hope of the white race, Jasper Ave., that historic thoroughfare, was the scene of the conflict and at the appointed hour was lined with thousands (in a press agent sense) of spectators. Betting was brisk, over $50,000 changing hands on the result. Mr. A. Grant, the highly cultured sporting editor of the Journal flourish, a pistol around, and the crowd kept a respectful distance, fearing that old "didn't know it was loaded" state. Sharp on the time well-trained springs were on their mark, and sprang forward at the crack of the gun. Every inch of the journey was a combat, until, with 2 feet to go, Perks, gashed all his remaining vitality, and with one last frantic effort, breached the tape, a winner and a hero.

After the race, the prize, a chicken, was dissected at a nearby restaurant.

DORMATS HAVE STILL TO LOSE

Defeated the Keystone Last Evening by One-Sided Score of 40 to 12.

After the Dormats had finished with the Keystone last evening, the pride of the printing profession looked as if they had passed through the business end of a rubber eraser.

The score at last time was 40 to 0 in favor of the dormats of the Y. M. C. A. At full-time "Dormats" were perched the abashed scorers. However, it is no disgrace to be beaten by the Dormats as they look like the coming champions.

The teams were:

TOO MUCH SPEED DANGEROUS ASSET

Speed is something that baseball managers try to gild. They want fast men. They want men who can move down to first like quarter horses, men who can round the bases at a racing clip, and men who can pursue the ball in record time. And yet strange as it may seem, there are limits to the speed which managers desire, and a man who is much too fast is almost as much in the way as a man who is too slow. Paradox and impossibility? It might seem so, yet any manager will frankly state that he dreads the presence on his team of an over-speedy man.

"Years ago," says John McGraw, "the New York Giants tried to figure out some way of getting extreme speed upon the team. It was agreed that if a man could be developed who could do the sprints between the bases at the fastest pace since Billy Sunday's time, it would be the best thing that could happen for the club, and would even be better than the landing of a star pitcher."

Waters was a Bug. "At this time," says McGraw, "the great sprinter, was footloose, and he was a baseball bug of the tropical pattern. It seemed a great scheme to make a ball player out of him. It was argued that he could beat out a grounder that ordinary players would be ditched on every trip, and that he would be the greatest thing that ever happened when it came to stealing the bases. Waters was determined, and we proceeded to show him the angles of batting and fielding. The fielding came all right—he was soon able to take care of outfield flies—and he proved a fast learner of the bat. Then he went on a spring training trip and everybody, scribes, fans and all, expected that he would be a regular outfielder."

Picked partners in Silk Neckwear. Kelly & Moore's.

er of the Giants when we returned. "But Bernie never played a scheduled game, and was never heard of in the baseball world again. He was too fast, that was all."

Overran the Bag. "When it was up to Wefers to go down to first he went like a flash of light—and couldn't stop. Trained to the 100-yard dash, the thirty-yard sprint only started him and he went flying on to the balance of his original stunt. When he was standing up to steal bases he stole them standing up. He couldn't slide and he didn't have to—that fellow was over the base before the catcher knew he had the ball. There was the trouble. He continued to go over the bases and couldn't halt himself until he had gone far into the left field. Of course we infielders gathered the ball and waited for his return. We couldn't teach him to stop, to check his speed or to turn fast upon the line, and thus get some good out of his superfluous rapidity. We tried hard to teach him but it didn't work, and Wefers himself, broken-hearted, gave it up before the time got home."

Speedy Jim Callahan.

"It sometimes happens too, that a man is too fast in fielding. Jimmy Callahan, a pitcher, showed such tremendous speed that they put him at short and third the first year he was in fast company. And time after time, when a grounder was hit his way, Callahan darted at it with such terrific speed that he couldn't check himself over the ball, but overran it, and the hit went on unbidden."

"Speed is a great thing, a glorious thing, and I wish I could get some more of it for the Giants, but speed uncontrolled and unrestrained is an awful handicap, and a man who is too fast is as badly off as if he were in the Larry McLean class for ability."

We beg to inform our many patrons that we are using a tem label for our "Capitol" Beer as an injunction has been granted by the Courts restraining us from using our original "Capitol" label pending our law suit with the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association, of St. Louis, Mo. ## EDMONTON MUST HAVE THE RAILWAY TO THE NORTH

Premier Sifton's bill to divert the Alberta and Great Waterways money to the general fund of the province has passed the second reading without the premier's making a specific declaration that it was his intention to arrange for the construction of a road from Edmonton to Fort McMurray.

The Capital has contended from the first that this was the danger that was to be feared, and it has come.

The question to the people of Edmonton was not who should build the road, or how it should be built, but whether it was to be built at all or not.

Premier Sifton's bill is condemnable for the omissions it makes. It diverts the money intended to finance the construction of a certain specific line by which Edmonton was to greatly benefit to purposes other than it was intended for, and it omits making any provision by any other method for obtaining the particular piece of road in which Edmonton is particularly interested.

When the policy of the Rutherford government was adopted it was adopted as a whole. It provided railway facilities for many parts of the province and it provided two competing lines for Calgary. Every other mile of railway guaranteed by the Rutherford government has been either built or arrangements completed for its construction. Only the line in which Edmonton was interested has been stopped.

All other parts of the province get what they were promised. Edmonton gets nothing from a government which was elected to carry out the strictest measure of justice.

As a concession to the pressure of public opinion, Premier Sifton said in the house yesterday that he had never contemplated abandoning the development of the north country; that he was in favor of the construction of roads not only to the north, but also to the northwest and to the northeast.

In this statement it may be taken that the premier means exactly what he says; that he is equally in favor of all roads—that the road which a bill passed by the legislature provided for stands in no position of preference over the schemes not yet formulated for roads to Peace River and into the north-eastern parts of the province.

This is the greatest injustice to Edmonton that it would be possible to perpetrate under the circumstances. There can be no remedy for it but to continue the fight until the premier commences to see that Edmonton is as much entitled to have the promises made to it redeemed as is any other part of the province.

And this point the Edmonton people must recognize, that if the trade of the north is to be made tributary to Edmonton the construction of the road must be undertaken without delay.

Already a railway is being built from Battleford into the Fort McMurray country, and if that road taps the waterways of the north while Edmonton remains unconnected, Edmonton will thereby lose the trade of an empire two thousand miles from north to south, a thousand miles from east to west, a country untapped, of fabulous resources and of untold wealth, capable of such development as would make Edmonton a city of the first magnitude, the centre of a commerce lucrative and unending and the starting point of the magnificent enterprises of which the future holds promise in the gigantic development that will some day take place in the sombre north.

Edmonton must have the railway to the north. It is our due and by fortitude and persistence in building this city our citizens have earned the right to command the gateway. Premier Sifton, in his desire to eliminate the Waterways and Clarke, of Kansas City, must not be allowed to block the opening of the new El Dorado.

THE NATURAL RESOURCES RESOLUTION

The next important question to come up in the house is that covered by Bramley-Moore's resolution which provides that such resources as are of local concern should be controlled by the province.

The justice of the contention scarcely needs stating to be seen. By the autonomy act the province of Alberta handed over all the natural resources to the Dominion. Consequently, when Edmonton contemplates developing power on the Athabasca it is to the Dominion that it must go for the right to the water. Should this province desire to undertake something in the nature of the Ontario Hydro-Electric, the province would be in the same position as the city of Edmonton. It would have to go to the Dominion for the right to develop streams, the development of which could not affect any other part of the Dominion and are consequently purely domestic affairs within the household of Alberta.

The argument which applies to the administration of the water rights of the province applies with equal force to the fisheries, the timber resources, the coal mines, and the mineral resources of the province, notwithstanding that these resources will be developed by purely individual enterprise.

If these resources are to be developed it is a prima facie case that the authority under which they should be controlled is the closest competent authority, not the farthest away.

It is claimed by the Ottawa authorities that the development of these resources gets nothing for the Dominion. If such is the case there can be no hardship worked against the Dominion when they are handed over, and Albertans will accept them with confidence that the administrators of this province are quite competent to secure as much development in the future, especially in the mineral areas, as the Department of the Interior, under which they have been administered, has done in the past.

When Castro cancelled the asphalt contracts with the United States Asphalt Trust President Roosevelt sent a whole squadron of warships to Venezuela and Castro wound up an exile in Europe. Since Sifton is cancelling another contract with an American citizen and Sir Wilfrid is at the same time making the Saskatchewan river navigable this province may have need of the Canadian navy to keep its premier from sharing Castro's fate.

Jean Mace is dead, Frank Gotch has retired from politics, and James J. Jeffries has decided not to come back. On top of this comes the rumor that Joe Stauffer has found politics too slow and long for something more exciting. There soon will not be a real good controversialist left to decorate the map.

SIFTON IN FIGHTING SPEECH

that man got an honest man's due.

He hoped the house would not back up any legislation to take this matter out of the control of the house. It would take five years before any legislation could be commenced, and the money would remain in the bank during that time. If the amendment as proposed by the leader of the opposition were adopted, it would mean the tying up of the province in litigation, which would commence for at least three years.

The fact as to whether the plans of the company were approved or not material at all. Since the company had done nothing since February 1909 they had certainly broken their contract. But he quoted from the evidence of ex-premier Rutherford on the witness stand given in response to questions by the junior member for Calgary.

"Have you ever given approval of plans of this road?"

Answer: "No."

Question: "Has sanction of plans ever been asked for?"

Answer: "No."

While the hon. leader of the opposition was speaking, and the junior member for Calgary was speaking, I ran over in my mind the class of addresses we would have been hearing from them had I done what they now promise. Had I gone out and even made a tentative agreement with Mr. Stewart, and had you come to this session and found the country tied up under a contract, as that, I hope you would have confirmed me. I know that the Conservative speakers would have said: "It was just what we expected from the '47 party."

"There is nothing in this bill," went on the premier, "that confiscates any single dollar that Clarke ever brought into the country. It simply provides for the enforcement of an agreement that was not carried out. There is nothing there that has made it possible for the province from paying any legitimate debt that has arisen as a result of this."

"They tell me that I have given the railway company no opportunity to be heard. I have been heard continuously for six months, and I have the business of the province demanded that I be absent. Only one lawyer representing the railway company has ever been in my office during all that time. During my absence in another part of the country, I was made to go to do business there. My only remarks at that time was that I would do no business except in my office in Edmonton, but that I would have no objection to meeting anybody there."

"It may come that the province may have to appear in the courts of justice in the future in regard to this, but I believe that the people of the province will back up the government that has protected their interests."

"We have been told that Clarke as an alien is entitled to rely on our courts. I for one thoroughly agree that no matter where a man comes from, no matter what his race, and no matter what his political beliefs, if he is an alien in the United States is not even allowed to hold a small portion of real estate, that an alien is not entitled to this country shall be treated on exactly the same terms as if he were here, so long as he is here, and he is on an honest basis. I don't think the Americans living in this country would have any objection to a different course of treatment to Clarke than to me or our people."

Premier Lacombe went on to say that many misapprehensions regarding his policy had been created. He had said that his policy meant the entire abandonment of the north. He was surprised that view had been given expression to.

"This bill," said the premier, "has only to do with the elimination of Clarke and the Great West, as far as the bonds are concerned. The elimination of that company, in my estimation, is the first step towards the proper development of the north country. There have been suggestions that this contract should be given to some other large company. If I had attempted to legislate at present, the directors of the Great West would be eliminated, and that the directors of the Grand Trunk Pacific would take their place, there would have been very serious legal objection."

"That there should have been misrepresentation was not anticipated. But I wish to assure the members of this house that the province is not in the serious condition referred to, that the province is not in the position that it cannot get all the money it requires outside of the A. and G. W. money."

The premier went on to point out that the five same disputed bonds were now selling at 117 in England, and that he had been paid by one eminent financial man, even after this legislation had been passed down, that should the province now wish to redeem the bonds, they would have to pay 120 for them.

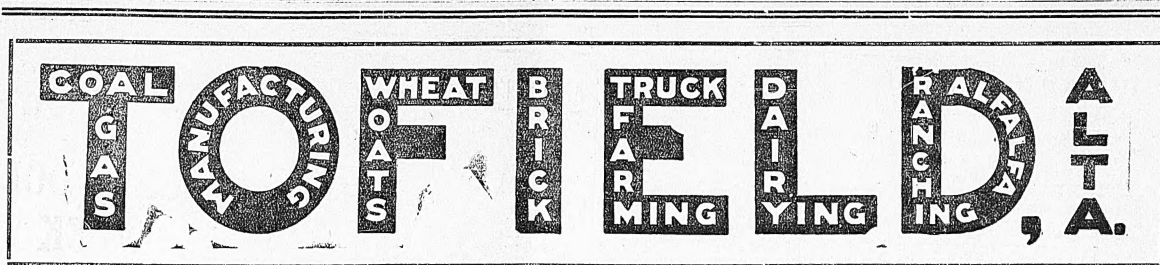

The question has been asked about the bond holders? A representative of the house of Mr. Clarke has come to me in my office not so long ago. I showed him this proposed legislation and he said that would suit the bond holders perfectly. I did this because it was a very serious matter, and I did not wish to go contrary to the wish of the bond holders."

"I have now said that I am renouncing the policy of development of the north country. I have lived here for a good many years and it has never occurred to me to say that, that one of the things I have said more than any other would receive my attention."

"This bill means the abandonment of that policy. It means the abandonment of the policy. It is my hope and will be my pleasure to see all parts of the province opened up to the extensive farms. It means that the $500,000 of guaranteed securities given the other companies must be earned by those companies."

"My policy is that the railway shall not own with the opening of the north, but that there shall be railways to

LOCATION.

Tofield is the junction point of the Calgary-Leithridge Branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway with the Main Line. It is 41 miles east of Edmonton and 86 miles west of Wainwright, the east of the five Divisional Points between Winnipeg and Edmonton. The location is one of the most highly in Western Canada. The ground rises gradually from the railroad to the northern limits of the town, from which it slopes gradually to beautiful Beaver Lake. This lake is 12 by 18 miles, is fresh water, filled with fish of many varieties, and is a ideal fishing and boating resort. Tofield is the heart of the famous Beaver Lake District and in the eastern part of the great gas and oil-bearing area of Alberta. This town has a population of about 600.

TRANSPORTATION.

Situated on the Main Line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and at the head of the Calgary-Leithridge branch, Tofield is peculiarly favored with railroad facilities. Its facilities for reaching the Towns of the Prairie Provinces to the east with its coal and brick, and Edmonton on the west with its farm products and live stock, are unsurpassed. The Calgary-Leithridge branch connects it with the important towns of Southern Alberta and with the United States boundary. This branch has been graded for a distance of 18 miles, and about 80 miles of steel has been laid. This branch passes through the centre of the coal fields south of Tofield and connects with the C. P. R. and C. N. R. at Camrose, 30 miles south.

BRICK CLAY.

There has recently been discovered at Tofield a deposit of clay of which experts assert an excellent quality of brick can be manufactured. A number of tests of this clay have been made, all of them showing satisfactory results. Two projects for the establishment of brick manufacturing plants at Tofield are now being considered, one backed by Edmonton capital and one by Montreal capital. There is an abundance of cheap wood in the vicinity of Tofield for burning brick. Coal for the operation of brick-making machinery is abundant, cheap and easily obtained. Should the supply of natural gas come up to expectations, gas will doubtless be substituted for wood for burning the brick.

AGRICULTURE.

The Beaver Lake District has for years been noted for the productivity of its soil and the variety of its farm products. On Nov. 3, 1910, an auction sale of School Lands was held at Tofield, the average price for acre being $12.62, as compared with $10.25 per acre in the Vegreville district, and $10.81 per acre in the Vermilion district. The soil is a rich black loam with a clay subsoil, and is remarkable for its strength, producing an unusually rapid growth of vegetation. The climate, moderated by the Japan Current, is milder than in sections further south. In long seasons of sunshine and abundance of moisture during the summer months cause crops to mature quickly.

COAL.

Tofield is situated in the eastern part of the Edmonton Coal Formation, being the furthest point east on the G.T.P. Main Line where coal is found in commercial quantities. For this reason it has an important advantage in the matter of freight rates to the towns east of it which are dependent upon it for cheap fuel. The coal fields are situated about one mile south of the town. Drill tests have so far shown that from 5000 to 6000 acres are underlain with from 6 to 10 feet of coal. Four mines are now in operation, employing about 50 men. In one mine the coal is reached by stripping the earth to a depth of 10 to 15 feet. Coal can be had at the mines for $1.50 a ton, and is delivered at the homes in Tofield at $2.50 a ton.

NATURAL GAS.

Tofield is believed to be the centre of an important gas-producing region. Natural gas in commercial quantities has been found in this region both east and west of Tofield. Recently, while a town well was being sunk in the heart of the town, a strong flow of gas of good quality was encountered at a depth of 200 feet. At a depth of 225 feet another strong flow of gas was encountered. The well was cased and drilling was continued, but the gas contained no seepage around the casing. Experts from the Medicine Hat gas fields predict that when sufficient depth is reached sufficient gas will be found not only to supply the town but to furnish light and heat for neighboring towns.

MIXED FARMING.

The Beaver Lake District is distinctively a mixed farming district. All of the products of Western Canada are grown here successfully. Wheat yields 25 to 45 bushels to the acre, oats 75 to 100 bushels, barley 25 to 45 bushels. Corn matures for seed, and peas, rye and flax are grown. Alfalfa has been grown successfully. Stock raising is an important industry, the natural grass furnishing excellent feed. Horses range throughout the winter, and plenty of hay is produced for cattle and sheep. Many hogs are raised in the district. The packing plant near Edmonton on the G. T. P. affords a good market for all kinds of food animals.

TRUCK FARMING.

The district surrounding Beaver Lake is peculiarly adapted to truck farming, the waters of the Lake preventing early frosts. Potatoes, tomatoes, cucumbers, pumpkins, squash, cabbages, asparagus, celery, etc., are successfully cultivated. Dairying is becoming an important industry. A large amount of milk, cream and butter is shipped daily to Edmonton. Poultry and eggs are produced in considerable quantities and find a ready market at good prices at the Tofield produce store, which buy for the Edmonton market. There is an especially good opening at Tofield for experienced truck gardeners.

TOFIELD RAILROAD FACILITIES.

The above map shows Tofield's excellent shipping facilities. The Main Line of the Grand Trunk Pacific connects it east and west with the growing towns of the Prairie Provinces. The Main line of the C. N. R. is reached by the connection at Rykym, 11 miles east, and connection is made with the Edmonton line of the C. P. R. at Camrose, 30 miles south. As a distributing point for factory products Tofield has many important advantages.

MANUFACTURING.

There is every indication that Tofield in a few years be one of the most important manufacturing centres in Western Canada. Its facilities for the distribution of the products of its factories are excellent; the Grand Trunk Pacific and connecting lines bringing it in close touch with a large and populous territory in Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan. Cheap fuel—Coal and natural gas—plenty of water, good shipping facilities will inevitably attract manufacturing. No better openings are to be found in Western Canada for a flouring mill and a cereal mill than are to be found at Tofield. A superior quality of wheat and oats is produced in the district, and markets for the products are close at hand.

TOFIELD A NEW TOWN.

The railroad did not reach Tofield until the late fall of 1909. Prior to that time there was no outlet for its coal, and the farm products of the district had to be hauled by wagon long distances to market. The real history of the town therefore dates back to the coming of the Grand Trunk Pacific about a year ago. During the past year the population of the town has more than doubled. The coming summer will see a remarkable development not only in the town but in the surrounding district. Those who buy property there now will get the full benefit of this development which will inevitably result in a rapid increase in real estate values. The town is not new enough to be an experiment, it is old enough for property values to be too high for profitable investment.

WHERE AND WHEN TO BUY.

The place to invest money in real estate is in a town that has back of it resources which cannot fail to make it a success. Having found a town backed by such resources, the time to buy is before real estate prices are based on what the town is expected to be rather than on what it is. Tofield has the resources necessary to the making of an important town. These resources are just in the first stages of development. The attention of the outside world has not been attracted to it, and it is not yet within 30 days of the date of the application, give the purchaser the choice of lots remaining at the same price, or refund all payments made.

PURCHASERS FULLY PROTECTED.

Persons who purchase down lots direct from the Grand Trunk Pacific are fully protected. The standing and credit of one of Canada's leading institutions stands back of every statement made and every agreement entered into. Perfect title direct from the Grand Trunk Pacific to the purchaser is guaranteed. Where the selection of lots is left to us, and the selection is not satisfactory the Grand Trunk Pacific will, if requested to do so within 30 days of the date of the application, give the purchaser the choice of lots remaining at the same price, or refund all payments made.

LOTS IN THE HEART OF THE TOWN.

are right in the heart of the town—between the old marked "G.T.P." and "C.N.R."—now being offered for sale. It will be noted that about half of these lots are the new sections. The remainder are close to the business section and the railroad, and many of them will, without doubt, be in demand later for factory sites.

TO THE ADDRESS OF THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF EDMONTON:

Having been requested by a large number of my friends to make the race for alderman of this city I have consented to become a candidate.

In presenting myself as a candidate, I place before the ratepayers what I believe to be a number of the salient issues which should receive the attention of the men whom you select to represent you, and in consideration of which I ask support.

Should I be elected, the electors may rest assured that I will fight for the issues which in any opinion would tend toward the development of the greater Edmonton.

(1). I am in favor of all civic work being done by day labor rather than by contract, as has been the custom in most departments in the past. If the contractors can make money or any certain piece of work there is no reason why the city can not save money by doing it day labor. The city has all the necessary equipment, and retains the departmental heads, an expense which is met under any circumstance.

(2). Believing that an east end ride which would give more direct connection with the east end of Strathcona would be a great convenience and that it would bring a considerable amount of trade to the city, I am in favor of immediate construction of the same.

(3). Proper business-like steps should be taken at once to reduce the cost in the street railway department, by increasing the earnings through a proper system of fares and park lines so that the system would be handling traffic in the summer evenings at a time when it is not now a heavy revenue producer. Following this method, street railway enterprises in other cities can save large dividends. There is no reason why the Edmonton system should not be made to pay its own expenses.

(4). While it is an acknowledged fact that Edmonton has one of the finest fire brigades and fire protection in the west, we still find that Calgary and Regina have lower fire insurance rates than we have. I believe that steps should be taken to secure the services of an expert from some board of underwriters who can point out to the city what remains to be done to secure better rates.

(5). I believe that the city commissioners should be elected by the people and should hold office subject to a recall by a stated percentage of electors, taking the precautions adopted in Des Moines and other cities where this system is in vogue of requiring the politicians to guarantee the cost of the election and meet the expense in case the recall fails.

(6). I believe that the mayor and alderman, as well as the commissioners should be subject to recall. With such a law in force a city official who violates his pledges might be removed from office and a successor elected who was prepared to do the ratepayers' bidding.

(7). These I believe are important points which should be given vital consideration at this stage of the city's history and if elected, I assure the electors that these principles will be carried out to the letter if it is within my power.

Yours truly,
JOHN C. MACDONALD.

Interviewed by the Capital yesterday, Assessor McMullan stated in positive terms that in his opinion the criticism of the accounting branch in his department, by City Auditor Richardson, in his annual report, was entirely uncalled for, as the year does not close until the first of this month, whereas the fiscal year ends on the last day of October. Owing to the fact that the books are not closed until the first of the year it is impossible to keep them strictly up to date and they cannot be re-checked until some time in February.

SIFTON IN FIGHTING SPEECH

the northeast and to the northwest, to the very uttermost limits of possible settlement.

"If I remain here I intend to see that that policy is carried out, and within a reasonable time I will consider that this bill provides the only honest way of getting out of the difficulty."

R. B. Bennett

(Although R. B. Bennett's speech was to a great extent a repetition of his great speech of the other night, it was lively as the extreme as there were several sharp passages between him and the premier.

On rising to speak, Bennett declared that he had asked a question before which had not been answered yet.

"I asked: Whose money is in the banks? And my reply was abuse."

"Again I ask: Whose money is in the banks?"

"The reply is sneers—and cheers."

"The premier has said that this money is in trust and the banks could pay it out."

"But again I ask, Whose money is it?"

And Mr. Bennett pointed an accusatory finger at the premier.

"It belongs to the people of the province," said the premier.

"This is a most creditable answer for one who has occupied a seat on the bench," declared Bennett.

"I knew it wouldn't sink you," shot back the premier.

"Why," roared Bennett, "it's proving one's intelligence to say that."

What does Mackay say. He's the legal adviser of this government, it seems."

"When the premier sat down after speaking, the crowd he most wrong," continued Bennett. "And I can say to his credit. In the old days he was the answer of the crowd room. He could stand up, or sit down or go out, and I had to do it. But now, thank Heaven, we are equal, and can speak to him as man to man."

"The premier declares that this money belongs to the province. If this is the case, why pass this legislation if the money is already yours?"

Bennett declared that the money still belonged to the company. It was like a promissory note. Because some one entered the note it did not follow that the money belonged to the endorser.

"The premier said, 'What did Clarke ever bring into this province. He went to England and brought $7,000,000 into the province."

"Premier says that this bill is just to eliminate the company. But the bill says that the company is indemnified and made harmless. He also says the province will pay all claims. But the bill says 'without any set-off, compensation, or deduction whatsoever.'"

Bennett declared that the contract was being broken as a matter of expediency, "because it will try to get the party out of a hole," as he put it.

The premier had spoken of changing the board of directors. Since when had it been possible for an incoming board to repudiate the contracts made by a former board.

Referring to the premier's declaration that a bill would be built to the north end of the line, Bennett said that required a lot of faith. "The premier has practically said, 'Don't be alarmed, boys, you'll get your railroad all right.'"

But where was the money coming from that was to build this new line. All the A. & G. W. money was going to be diverted to the general fund of the province. Since when were railroads built out of the general revenue fund of a country?

"I've heard it said that the men who vote best for this bill tonight would get the most for their constituents."

"The populace are down on Clarke. He didn't come to the Royal Commission, so Hurray, three cheers for the premier."

A. & G. W. money. Grab it for roads and bridges.

"This is bribery," said Bennett, "the most wholesale since the days of Wapiti."

Bennett closed with a dramatic outburst in which he declared that the major was now a test between voting as one were told and your conscience. He and his friends would leave it to history whether they were right or wrong. He could not hope to convince the present government.
